Excerpts from Cantata 140: Wachet auf

Johann Sebastian Bach (1685-1750)

This cantata was written in Leipzig in 1731 for the 27th Sunday after Trinity — the last Sunday before Advent. The two duets make extensive use of biblical quotation, particularly from the Song of Solomon, and Bach's quasi-operatic writing creates an extended love scene for Christ and the Soul of Man.

Duet

Seele: Wannkommst du, mein Heil?
Jesus: Ich komme, dein Teil.
Seele: Ich warte mit brennendem Öle.
Eröffne den Saal zum himmlischen Mahl!
Jesus: Ich öffne den Saal
zum himmlischen Mahl.
Seele: Komm, Jesu!
Jesus: Komm, liebliche Seele!

Duet

Soul: When will you come, my salvation?
Jesus: I come, your better part.
Soul: I wait with lighted lamp.
Open the room for the heavenly feast.
Jesus: I open the room for the heavenly feast.
Soul: Come, Jesu!
Jesus: I come, sweet soul!

Recitative

So geh herein zu mir, du mir erwählte Braut!
Ich habe mich mit dir von Ewigkeit vertraut!
Dich will ich auf mein Herz, auf
meinen Arm gleich wie ein Segel setzen
Und dein betrübtes Aug ergötzen.
Vergiss, o Seele, nun die Angst,
den Schmerz,
Den du erdulden müssen;
Auf meine Linken sollst du ruhn,
Und meine Rechte soll dich küssen.

Recitative

So come into me, my chosen bride!
I have betrothed myself to you for eternity.
I will set you like a seal
on my heart,
on my arm,
and will delight your sad eyes.
Now forget, O soul, the fear and pain
you have had to endure;
at my left hand will you rest and at my right hand will I kiss you.

Duet

Seele: Mein Freund ist mein!
 Jesus: Und ich bin sein!
 Beide: Die Liebe soll nichts scheiden!

Seele: Ich will mit dir in Himmels Rosen weiden,
 Jesus: Du sollst mit mir in Himmels Rosen weiden, Beide: Da Freude die Fülle, da Wonne wird sein!

Duet

Soul: My friend is mine
 Jesus: And I am hers.
 Both: Nothing shall sever love.

Soul: I will enjoy the roses of heaven with you.
 Jesus: You will enjoy the roses of heaven with me.
 Both: There will be fullness of joy and rapture.

Liederkreis, Op 24 (Heine)

Robert Schumann (1810-56)

Schumann's first song-cycle was composed early in 1840, his miraculous 'year of song', when his love for Clara Wieck was about to be rewarded by marriage. It is extraordinary, and at the same time revelatory, that his feelings for his future wife should find their musical expression in terms of Heine's poems, shot through as they are with irony and pessimism. However, the cycle concludes with Mit Myrthen und Rosen and the delightful image of Schumann offering a book of songs to his beloved; in fact, as a wedding gift he did present his next cycle, Myrthen, Op. 25.

1. Morgens steh' ich auf und frage:
 Kommt feins Liebchen heut?
 Abends sink' ich hin und klage:
 Aus blieb sie auch heut.

At morn I rise and ask:
 Will my love come today?
 At even I sink down, complain:
 And today she stayed away.

In der Nacht mit meinem Kummer
 Lieg' ich schlaflos, wach;
 Träumend, wie im halben Schlummer,
 Wandle ich bei Tag.

At night, with my grief,
 watchful, sleepless, I lie;
 dreaming, half slumbering,
 I wander through the day.

2. Es treibt mich hin, es treibt mich her!
 Noch wenige Stunden, dann soll ich sie schauen,
 Sie selber, die schönste der schönen Jungfrauen;—
 Du treues Herz, was pochst du so schwer!

I'm driven this way, driven that!
 A few more hours, then I shall see her,
 her, the fairest of fair maidens;—
 faithful heart, how hard you beat!

Die Stunden sind aber ein faules Volk!

Schleppen sich behaglich träge,
Schleichen gähnend ihre Wege; — Tummle dich, du faules Volk!

Tobende Eile mich treibend erfaßt!
Aber wohl niemals liebten die Horen;
Heimlich im grausamen Bunde verschworen, Spotten sie tückisch der Liebenden Hast.

The hours, though, are a lazy breed!

With easy indolence they dawdle, yawningly they crawl their way; —
get a move on, you lazy breed!

Raging haste seizes and impels me;
but the Hours can never have loved;
secretly bound in cruel league,
spitefully they mock lovers' haste.

3. Ich wandelte unter den Bäumen
Mit meinem Gram allein;
Da kam das alte Träumen
Und schlich mir ins Herz hinein.

Amid the trees I wandered,
with my grief, alone;
and the old dreams came,
and stole into my heart

Wer hat euch dies Wörtlein gelehret,
Ihr Vöglein in luftiger Höh?
Schweigt still! wenn mein Herz
es höret,
Dann tut es noch einmal so weh.

Who taught you that dear word,
birds in the airy heights?
Be silent. When my heart hears it,
it causes again such pain.

'Es kam ein Jungfräulein gegangen,
Die sang es immerfort,
Da haben wir Vöglein gefangen
Das hübsche, goldne Wort.'

'A maid there was came walking,
she sang it all the time,
and we birds seized upon it,
that lovely, golden word.'

Das sollt ihr mir nicht erzählen,
Ihr Vöglein wunderschlau;
Ihr wollt meinem Kummer mir
stehlen,
Ich aber niemandem trau'.

You're not to tell me that,
you birds so wondrous sly;
my grief you would steal from me.
but no one do I trust.

4. Lieb' Liebchen, leg's Händchen aufs Herze mein; —
Ach, hörst du, wie's pochet im
Kämmerlein?
Da hauset ein Zimmermann
schlimm und arg,
Der zimmert mir einen Totensarg.

Es hämmert und klopfet bei Tag
und bei Nacht;
Es hat mich schon längst um den
Schlaf gebracht.
Ach! sputet Euch, Meister
Zimmermann,
Damit ich balde schlafen kann.

5. Schöne Wiege meiner Leiden, Schönes Grabmal meiner Ruh', Schöne Stadt, wir müssen scheiden,—
Lebe wohl! ruf ich dir zu.

Lebe wohl, du heil'ge Schwelle,
Wo da wandelt Liebchen traut;
Lebe wohl! du heil'ge Stelle,
Wo ich sie zuerst geschaut.

Hätt' ich dich doch nie gesehen, Schöne Herzenskönigin!
Nimmer wär' es dann
geschehen,
Daß ich jetzt so elend bin.

Nie wollt' ich dein Herze rühren,
Liebe hab' ich nie erfleht;
Nur ein stilles Leben führen Wollt' ich, wo dein Odem weht.

Doch du drängst mich selbst von hinnen,
Bitte Worte spricht dein Mund;
Wahnsinn wühlt in meinen
Sinnen,
Und mein Herz ist krank und wund.

My dearest, lay your hand
on my heart; —
ah, can you hear the hammering?
A carpenter lives there,
wicked and bad,
fashioning me a coffin.

A banging and hammering day and night;
it has long since taken my sleep
away,
Ah, master carpenter,
make haste,
so that I soon may sleep.

Beautiful cradle of my sorrows,
beautiful tombstone of my peace,
beautiful town, we must part, — to you I cry farewell.

Farewell, sacred threshold which my dear love treads;
farewell, sacred place where I first beheld her.

Had I but never seen you,
beautiful queen of my heart!
Never would it then have happened
that I am now so wretched.

I never wished to stir your heart,
love I have never craved;
to lead a quiet life,
where you breathed, no more
I asked.

But you, you drive me
hence,
your lips speak bitter words;
madness rages in my mind,
and my heart is sick and sore.

Und die Glieder matt und träge Schlepp' ich fort am Wanderstab,
 Bis mein müdes Haupt ich lege Ferne in ein kühles Grab.

And my limbs, feeble and weak,
 on I will drag, staff in hand,
 till I lay my tired head down in a cold and distant grave.

6. Warte, warte, wilder Schiffmann, Gleich folg' ich zum Hafen dir;
 Von zwei Jungfrauen nehm' ich Abschied,
 Von Europa und von ihr.

Wait, wait, wild sailor,
 soon I'll follow to the port;
 two maidens I have to part from from Europe and from her.

Blutquell, rinn' aus meinen
 Augen,
 Blutquell, brich aus meinem Leib,
 Daß ich mit dem heißen Blute
 Meine Schmerzen niederschreib'.

Blood, stream from my eyes,
 blood, gush from my body,
 that I may, in hot blood.
 write down my sorrows.

Ei, mein Lieb, warum just heute Schaudert's du, mein Blut zu sehn?
 Sahst mich bleich und herzblutend
 Lange Jahre vor dir stehn!

Oh, my love, why just today do you shudder to see my blood?
 You've seen me pale, heart
 bleeding,
 before you for years on end!

Kennst du noch das alte Liedchen
 Von der Schlang' im Paradies,
 Die durch schlimme Apfelgabe Unsern Ahn ins Elend stieß.

Remember the ancient story of the serpent in Paradise,
 who, by wicked gift of an apple,
 cast our forebear into woe?

Alles Unheil brachten Äpfel!
 Eva bracht' damit den Tod,
 Eris brachte Trojas Flammen, Du bracht'st beides, Flamm' und Tod.

All ill has come with the apple!
 Eve brought with it death,
 Eris — the flames of Troy,
 you — both, flames
 and death.

7. Berg' und Burgen schaun herunter
 In den spiegelhellen Rhein,
 Und mein Schiffchen segelt munter,
 Rings umglänzt von Sonnenschein.
- Ruhig seh' ich zu dem Spiele
 Goldner Wellen, kraus bewegt;
 Still erwachen die Gefühle,
 Die ich tief im Busen hegt'.
- Freundlich grüssend und verheißend
 Lockt hinab des Stromes Pracht;
 Doch ich kenn' ihn, oben gleißend, Birgt sein Innres Tod und Nacht.
- Oben Lust, im Busen Tücken, Strom, du bist der Liebsten Bild!
 Die kann auch so freundlich
 nicken,
 Lächelt auch so fromm und mild.
8. Anfangs wollt' ich fast verzagen,
 Und ich glaubt', ich trüg' es nie;
 Und ich hab' es doch getragen —
 Aber fragt mich nur nicht, wie?
9. Mit Myrthen und Rosen, lieblich und hold,
 Mit duft'gen Zypressen und Flittergold,
 Möcht' ich zieren dies Buch wie
 'nen Totenschrein,
 Und sorgen meine Lieder hinein.
- O könnt' ich die Liebe sorgen hinzu!
 Auf dem Grabe der Liebe wächst Blümlein der Ruh',
 Da blüht es hervor, da pflückt man es ab, —
 Doch mir blüht's nur, wenn ich selber im Grab.
- Mountains, castles gaze down into the mirror-clear Rhine, and gaily sails my tiny boat,
 surrounded by sunlight
 gleam.
- Calmly I watch the play
 of golden, ruffled waves;
 softly the feelings awaken
 I'd nursed deep in my heart.
- With friendly welcome,
 promising,
 the river's splendour beckons me;
 but I know it — glistening above,
 it hides death and night below.
- Above pleasure, at heart malice,
 river, you resemble my love!
 She can nod just as welcomingly,
 smile just as sweetly and gently.
- At first I almost despaired, thought I could never bear it;
 yet borne it I have — only ask me not how.
- With myrtle and roses, sweet and fair,
 fragrant cypress and foil of gold,
 would I decorate this book like a coffin
 and in it put my songs.
- Would I might put love
 in too!
 On love's grave grows the flower of peace,
 there it blossoms, there is plucked, —
 it will bloom for me only above
 my own grave.

Hier sind nun die Lieder, die
einst so wild,
Wie ein Lavastrom, der dem
Ätna entquillt,
Hervorgestürtzt aus dem tiefsten
Gemüt,
Und rings viel blitzende Funken versprühlt!

Nun liegen sie stumm und totengleich,
Nun starren sie kalt und nebelbleich,
Doch aufs neu' die alte Glut sie belebt,
Wenn der Liebe Geist einst
über sie schwebt.

Und es wird mir im Herzen viel Ahnung laut:
Der Liebe Geist einst über
sie taut;
Einst kommt dies Buch in deine Hand,
Du süßes Lieb im fernen Land.

Dann löst sich des Liedes Zauberbann,
Die blaßen Buchstaben schaun
dich an,
Sie schauen dir flehend ins
schöne Aug',
Und flüstern mit Wehmut und Liebeshaut.

Here now are the songs which once, wild
as a stream of lava pouring from Etna,
burst from the depths of my soul,
showering many glittering sparks around.

Mute now they lie, and as if dead,
rigid now, cold, and pallid as the mist,
but the old glow shall revive them anew,
if love's spirit one day be poised above them

And in my heart the thought speaks loud;
that spirit will one day above
them thaw;
this book one day will fall into your hands
my sweet love, in a distant land.

Then shall song's magic spell break free.
the pallid letters gaze at
you.
gaze imploringly at your fair
eyes,
whisper with melancholy and breath of love.

Cinq Poèmes de Charles Baudelaire

Claude Debussy (1862-1918)

'However much Baudelaire loved music, however friendly he was with Wagner, Gounod and Liszt, his poetry is not the easiest literature to turn into song; much of it brims with a verbal music that does not need the interference of a singing voice. It is even more difficult for a composer to illustrate the complexities of Baudelaire's poetry, than it is for him to add something musical to the verbal wizardry of Paul Verlaine' (Graham Johnson). Debussy was one of those who took up the challenge, significantly at the time of his visits to Bayreuth, between 1887 and 1889. The result was a set of songs which are unique in Debussy's output, long, exceptionally rich in harmony and exhibiting the kind of developmental technique which is totally foreign to the subtlety and economy of his later songs. For one thing, he was responding to the form and style of Baudelaire's poems, with their grand, almost symphonic design; 'old Klingsor', as he later called him. Tristan und Isolde casts its spell over the music (appropriately, in view of the text of the last song) and the accompaniment suggests the orchestra — or, at least, the operatic vocal score, which would have been Debussy's chief means of absorbing Wagner's musical idiom.

1. Le Balcon

Mère des souvenirs, maîtresse
des maîtresses,
O toi, tous mes plaisirs! ô toi,
tous mes devoirs!
Tu te rappelleras la beauté des
caresses,
La douceur du foyer et le charme
des soirs,
Mère des souvenirs, maîtresse
des maîtresses!

Les soirs illuminés par l'ardeur
du charbon,
Et les soirs au balcon, voilés de vapeur rose.
Que ton sein m'était doux!
que ton coeur m'était bon!
Nous avons dit souvent d'impérissables choses,
Les soirs illuminés par l'ardeur
du charbon.

The Balcony

Mother of remembrances, mistress
of mistresses,
O you, my every pleasure!
O you, my every obligation!
You will recall the beauty of
caresses
The peacefulness of home, and the charm of evenings;
Mother of remembrances, mistress
of mistresses!

Evenings lit by the glow
of the coals,
And evenings on the balcony,
veiled by rosy mist,
How sweet your breast seemed to me!
How kind your heart seemed to me!
We often spoke of imperishable things
On those evenings, lit by the glow
of the coals.

Que les soleils sont beaux par
les chaudes soirées!
Que l'espace est profond! que le coeur est puissant!
En me penchant vers toi, reine
des adorées,
Je croyais respirer le parfum de ton sang.
Que les soleils sont beaux par les chaudes soirées!

La nuit s'épaississait
ainsi qu'une cloison,
Et mes yeux dans le noir
devinaient tes prunelles,
Et je buvais ton souffle, ô douceur, ô poison!
Et tes pieds s'endormaient dans mes mains fraternelles.
La nuit s'épaississait ainsi qu'une cloison.

Je sais l'art d'évoquer les minutes
heureuses,
Et revis mon passé blotti dans tes genoux.
Car à quoi bon chercher tes
beautés langoureuses Ailleurs qu'en ton cher corps et qu'en ton coeur si doux?
Je sais l'art d'évoquer les minutes heureuses!

Ces serments, ces parfums, ces baisers infinis.
Renaîtront-ils d'un gouffre
interdit à nos sondes, Comme montent au ciel les soleils rajeunis
Après s'être lavés au fond des mers profondes?
O serments! ô parfums!
ô baisers infinis!

How beautiful is the sun on torrid evenings!
How vast is space! How powerful is the heart!
Leaning toward you, Queen of all adored ones,
I imagined that I breathed the fragrance of your blood,
How beautiful is the sun
on torrid evenings!

The night became close, as if surrounded by walls,
And my eyes in the darkness
sought out your eyes,
And I imbibed your breath, O
sweetness, O venom!
And your feet became numb
in my brotherly hands;
The night became close, as if surrounded by walls.

I know the art of evoking happy moments,
And I relive my past, cradled in your knees.
For why should one search for your languorous beauty Anywhere except in your dear body and in your gentle heart?
I know the art of evoking happy moments!

Those vows, those perfumes, those endless kisses,
Will they be reborn out of a depth
beyond our reach,
As the rejuvenated sun rises
again into the sky,
after it has bathed at the bottom of deep ocean?
O vows! O perfumes!
O endless kisses!

2. Harmonie du soir

Voici venir les temps où vibrant sur sa tige
Chaque fleur s'évapore ainsi
qu'un encensoir;
Les sons et les parfums tournent
dans l'air du soir;
Valse mélancolique et
langoureux vertige!

Chaque fleur s'évapore ainsi
qu'un encensoir;
Le violon frémit comme un
coeur qu'on afflige;
Valse mélancolique et
langoureux vertige!
Le ciel est triste et beau comme
un grand reposoir.

Le violon frémit comme un
coeur qu'on afflige,
Un coeur tendre, qui hait le
néant vaste et noir!
Le ciel est triste et beau comme
un grand reposoir;
Le soleil s'est noyé dans son
sang qui se fige...

Un coeur tendre, qui hait le
néant vaste et noir,
Du passé lumineux recueille
tout vestige!
Le soleil s'est noyé dans son
sang qui se fige...
Ton souvenir en moi luit comme un ostensor.

Evening Harmony

Now comes that time when,
trembling on its stem,
Each flower exhales fragrance
like a censer;
The sounds and perfumes whirl
in the evening air;
A melancholy waltz and a languorous intoxication!

Each flower exhales fragrance
like a censer;
The violin vibrates like
a heart in distress;
A melancholy waltz and a languorous intoxication!
The sky is sad and beautiful, like
a great altar.

The violin vibrates like
a heart in distress,
A tender heart, which abhors
the vast and somber void!
The sky is sad and beautiful, like
a great altar;
The sun has drowned in its own
blood, which is congealing...

A tender heart, which abhors the vast and sober void, Recalls all memories of the luminous past!
The sun has drowned in its own
blood which is congealing...
My memory of you shines like a monstrance.

3. Le Jet d'eau

Tes beaux yeux sont las, pauvre amante!
 Reste longtemps sans les rouvrir,
 Dans cette pose nonchalante
 Où t'a surprise le plaisir.
 Dans la cour le jet d'eau
 qui jase
 Et ne se tait ni nuit ni jour,
 Entretient doucement l'extase
 Où ce soir m'a plongé l'amour.

Refrain

La gerbe d'eau qui berce
 Ses mille fleurs,
 Que la lune traverse
 De ses pâleurs,
 Tombe comme une averse
 De larges pleurs.

Ainsi ton âme qu'incendie
 L'éclair brûlant des voluptés
 S'élance, rapide et hardie,
 Vers les vastes cieux enchantés.
 Puis, elle s'épanche, mourante,
 En un flot de triste langueur,
 Qui par une invisible pente
 Descend jusqu'au fond de mon cœur.

O toi, que la nuit rend si belle,
 Qu'il m'est doux, penché vers
 tes seins,
 D'écouter la plainte éternelle
 Qui sanglote dans les bassins!
 Lune, eau sonore,
 nuit bénie,
 Arbres qui frissonnez autour, —
 Votre pure mélancolie
 Est le miroir de mon amour.

The Fountain

Your beautiful eyes are weary,
 my poor beloved!
 Rest a while without opening them,
 In this carefree pose
 In which pleasure has come upon you.
 In the courtyard, the fountain which chatters
 And never ceases, day or night,
 Sustains sweetly the ecstasy
 In which love has engulfed me tonight.

The column of water which rocks
 Its thousand flowers,
 Which the moon penetrates
 With its pale light,
 Falls like a shower
 Of large tears.

Thus your soul, setting aflame
 The fiery lightning of desires,
 Leaps quickly and fearlessly
 Toward the vast enchanted skies.
 Then it diffuses, dying,
 In a wave of sad languor
 Which, by way of an invisible incline,
 Descends to the depths of my heart.

Oh you, whom the night makes so beautiful,
 I find it sweet, leaning against your bosom,
 To listen to the eternal lament
 That sobs in the fountain.
 Moon, sonorous water,
 blessed night,
 Trees trembling all about, —
 Your pure melancholy
 Is the reflection of my love.

4. Recueillement

Sois sage, ô ma Douleur, et tiens-toi plus tranquille.
Tu réclamais le Soir, il descend,
le voici:
Une atmosphère obscure
enveloppe la ville,
Aux uns portant la paix, aux
autres le souci.

Pendant que des mortels la multitude vile,
Sous le fouet du Plaisir, ce
bourreau sans merci, Va cueillir des remords dans la fête servile,
Ma Douleur, donne-moi
la main: viens par ici,

Loin d'eux. Vois se pencher les défuntes Années,
Sur les balcons du ciel, en robes surannées;
Surgir du fond des eaux le Regret souriant;

Le soleil moribond s'endormir
sous une arche,
Et, comme un long linceul
traînent à l'Orient, Entends, ma chère, entends
la douce Nuit qui marche.

Contemplation

Be wise, oh my Sorrow, and behave more calmly.
You wished for the evening;
it descends, it is here:
A dark haze envelopes
the city,
Bringing to some peace,
to others anxiety.

While the base multitude of mortals,
Under the whip of Pleasure, that merciless executioner,
Will suffer the pangs of remorse
at the lowly feast, Sorrow of mine, give me
your hand, come hither,

Far away from them. See the dead
Years leaning
Over the balconies of heaven,
in faded garments;
See smiling Regret emerge from the depths of the waters;

The dying sun going to sleep
beneath an arch,
And, like a long shroud trailing towards the East,
Hear, my beloved, hear the gentle
Night approaching.

5. La Mort des amants

Nous aurons des lits pleins
d'odeurs légères,
Des divans profonds comme des
tombeaux,
Et d'étranges fleurs sur des
étagères,
Ecloses pour nous sous des cieux
plus beaux.

Usant à l'envi leurs chaleurs
dernières,
Nos deux coeurs seront deux
vastes flambeaux,
Qui réfléchiront leurs doubles
lumières
Dans nos deux esprits, ces miroirs jumeaux.

Un soir fait de rose et de bleu
mystique,
Nous échangerons un éclair unique,
Comme un long sanglot tout
chargé d'adieux;

Et plus tard un Ange,
entrouvrant les portes, Viendra ranimer, fidèle et joyeux,
Les miroirs ternis et les flammes mortes.

The Death of Lovers

We shall have beds scented with faint perfumes,
Divans sunken like
tombs,
And strange flowers on the shelves,
Unfolding for us beneath skies
more lovely.

Vying with each other, in their expiring fires,
Our two hearts will be two great torches,
Reflecting their double light
In our two spirits,
these twin mirrors.

On an evening spun of rose and mystic blue
We shall exchange a single lightening flash,
Like a long sob charged with parting;

And later an angel, opening
the gates,
Will restore to life, faithful and joyful,
The tarnished mirrors and the extinct flames.

Four folksongs

Le Roi s'en va-t'en chasse (French folksong)

arr. Benjamin Britten (1913-76)

Le roi s'en va-t'en chasse,
Dans le bois des Bourbons,
Mon aimable bergère,
Bergère Nanon.

Ne trouve rien en chasse,
Ni cailles, ni pigeons,
Mon aimable bergère,
Bergère Nanon.

Rencontre une bergère
Qui dormait dans les joncs,
Mon aimable bergère,
Bergère Nanon.

'Voulez vous être reine,
Dedans mes beaux donjons,
Mon aimable bergère,
Bergère Nanon.'

'Vous aurez des carrosses
Et de l'or à foison,
Mon aimable bergère,
Bergère Nanon.'

'Et cour de grandes dames,
De ducs et de barons,
Mon aimable bergère,
Bergère Nanon.'

'Merci, merci, beau Sire,
Mais j'aime un pauv' garçon,
Qui aime sa bergère,
Qui aime Nanon!'

The king is gone a-hunting in the forest of the Bourbons,
my lovely shepherdess,
my Nanon.

He has caught nothing,
neither quails nor pigeons.
my lovely shepherdess,
my Nanon.

He comes upon a shepherd maiden,
asleep in the rushes.
my lovely shepherdess,
my Nanon.

"Would you like to be my queen,
and live in my fine keep?
my lovely shepherdess,
my Nanon.'

'You will have carriages, and plenty of gold
my lovely shepherdess,
my Nanon.'

'And a court of noble ladies,
dukes and barons,
my lovely shepherdess,
my Nanon.'

'Thank you kindly, your Majesty,
but I love a humble lad;
he loves his shepherd maid,
he loves his Nanon!'

Sweet Polly Oliver (English folksong)

arr. Britten

As sweet Polly Oliver lay musing in bed,
 A sudden strange fancy came into her head.
 'Nor father nor mother shall make me false prove,
 I'll 'list as a soldier, and follow my love.'

So early next morning she softly arose,
 And dressed herself up in her dead brother's clothes.
 She cut her hair close, and she stained her face brown,
 And went for a soldier to fair London Town.

Then up spoke the sergeant one day at his drill:
 'Now who's good for nursing? A captain, he's ill.'
 'I'm ready', said Polly, to nurse him she's gone,
 And finds it's her true love all wasted and wan.

The first week the doctor kept shaking his head,
 'No nursing, young fellow, can save him,' he said.
 But when Polly Oliver had nursed him back to life
 He cried, 'You have cherished him as if you were his wife.'

O then Polly Oliver, she burst into tears
 And told the good doctor her hopes and her fears
 And very shortly after, for better or for worse,
 The captain took joyfully his pretty soldier nurse.

The False Young Man and the Lonesome Scenes of Winter

(A Maritime Folksong Duet)

arr. Alasdair MacLean (b. 1955)

The New Brunswick composer, MacLean, has taken two folksongs and woven them together into an intriguing dialogue of love and rejection. The duet was composed in 1993 for Wendy Nielsen and Erik Oland.

The False Young Man

O come, sit down with me, my dear,
While I sing you a merry song.
'Tis now for us well over a year Since together you and I have been.

I will not sit close to you, my dear,
Now nor any time,
You've given your heart to another one,
And your heart is no longer mine.

There's a rose in the garden for you, my dear,
A rose in the garden for you.
When fish fly high like birds in the sky,
Young men will then prove true.

The Lonesome Scenes of Winter

O, the lonesome scenes of winter in stormy winds do blow.
Clouds around the centre incline to frost and snow.
You're the girl I have chosen to be my only dear.
Your scornful heart is frozen and drifted far I fear.

One day I went to see my love, she proved most scornfully.
I asked her if she'd marry, but she would not marry me.
The night it is far spent, my love,
it's near the break of day.
I'm waiting for an answer, my dear,
what do you say?
I can but plainly tell you I'll lead a single life,
I never thought it fitting that I should be your wife.
Now take a civil answer and for yourself provide.
I have another sweetheart and you I have laid aside.'

Now my mind is changing that old love for the new.
This wide and lonesome valley I mean to ramble through,
In search of someone handsome that might my fancy fill.
This world is wide and lonesome;
if she don't, another will.

Vive la Canadienne (Quodlibet)

arr. John Greer (b. 1954)

Originally written for the duo of Mark DuBois and Mark Pedrotti, Greer employed his characteristic ingenuity in combining one of the best known French Canadian folksongs with references to several others, including En roulant ma boule, Ah! si mon moine voulait danser, M'en revenant de la jolie Rochelle and Les Raftsmen.

Vive la Canadienne!
(Vole, mon couer, vole!)
Vive la Canadienne
Et ses jolis yeux doux.

On danse avec nos blondes,
Nous changeons tour à tour.
Ainsi le temps se passe:
Il est vraiment bien doux.

Long live the Canadian girl!
(Soar, my heart!)
Long live the Canadian girl
And her pretty, sweet eyes.

Dancing with our fair ones,
We change our places.
Thus the time passes:
It is really delightful.

Aldeburgh is the small town on the east coast of England where Benjamin Britten, Peter Pears and Eric Crozier founded the Festival of Music which flourishes to this day. Artistic directors Stephen Ralls and Bruce Ubukata have visited and worked there for many summers, as has a large number of the singers appearing with The Aldeburgh Connection.

Heidi Klann has received numerous awards, including the Luciano Pavarotti Scholarship from the University of Toronto, the Diane Thorssen Usher Award for Outstanding Vocalist from the Alberta College Conservatory of Music and the Winspear Foundation Scholarship. In March, she placed first in her category at the National Association of Teachers of Singing Auditions in Toronto, and tied for the Most Promising Junior Singer Award. She has performed in recital, oratorio, musical theatre productions and live radio broadcasts, and has been a member of the Edmonton Opera Chorus. She is currently in her final year of the Artist Diploma Program at the University of Toronto, where she is enrolled in the undergraduate program of the Opera Division. Ms Klann is also a violist and an accomplished composer.

Alex Dobson is currently in his second year of study at the Opera Division of the University of Toronto. Important roles have included Leporello in Don Giovanni with the Vancouver Academy of Music and Figaro in Le Nozze di Figaro at the Orford Festival in Quebec, Peachum in Three Penny Opera, and this past summer he participated in Banff's opera and song programme. This season's engagements include Antonio in Opera in Concert's season première Linda di Chamonix and operatic arias with the North York Symphony. He will sing Messiah in December with Vocal Point, and Faure's Requiem with the Cellar Singers in March.

Stephen Ralls began his musical career in England, following studies at Merton College, Oxford, and at the Royal Academy of Music in London. He joined the staff of the English Opera Group, and performed in recitals, notably with Sir Peters Pears, at the Aldeburgh Festival and on the BBC. This led to Mr Ralls' appointment to the staff of the Britten-Pears School in Aldeburgh. In 1978, he joined the Faculty of Music, University of Toronto, where he is now Musical Director of the Opera Division. He has accompanied Canada's finest singers in concerts, festivals and broadcasts, and is a founding artistic director of The Aldeburgh Connection.
